Fund performance

The total performance of the fund in June was 1.46%.

The equity investments are spread globally across various investment themes and strategies, which we complement with highly liquid derivatives (futures and options). The allocation to equities (incl. option strategies) was increased from about 63% to 66% during the month. From a regional point of view, we focus on North America, Europe and Emerging Markets. The equity allocation had a positive influence on the fund performance in June.

In the credit space our allocation remained stable compared to the previous month at about 39%. The sensitivity to interest rate changes (duration) of our fund (on a portfolio basis) was approximately 1.56 years. Our fixed income investments delivered a positive contribution to performance.

Absolute return positions (predominantly market neutral) are spread across various strategies from the areas of equity long/short, volatility, event-driven/merger arbitrage and global macro. Compared to the previous month, we have reduced the weighting from about 9% to about 8%. On a monthly basis, this area provided immaterial performance contribution.

Investment objective

The Assenagon I Multi Asset Balanced aims to generate sustainable capital growth through flexible investments in various asset classes and investment instruments. The objective of the multi asset approach is to participate in the appreciation of a broad spectrum of promising asset classes over the medium term to as well as to outperform similar balanced multi asset strategies. The strategy targets long-term fund price volatility between 5% and 9%. No guarantee can be given that the fund price volatility will not exceed the above limits.

Investment strategy

The portfolio management team invests in the international equity, bond, credit, money, commodity and currency markets, with a maximum physical equity exposure of 65%. The team selects asset classes or specific segments from this broad asset class universe on a discretionary basis. Whether ETFs, ETPs, mutual funds, derivatives or individual securities: the portfolio management team always seeks to use the optimal instrument. The fund may be positioned in such a way that it can benefit from both rising prices of a "long" investment or falling prices of a "short" investment. Furthermore, the portfolio management team may also invest in investment strategies that pursue investments or income objectives that are correlated as little as possible with developments of traditional capital markets. The fund is actively managed and is not linked to a benchmark.
